RESPOKE | DECEMBER 2020

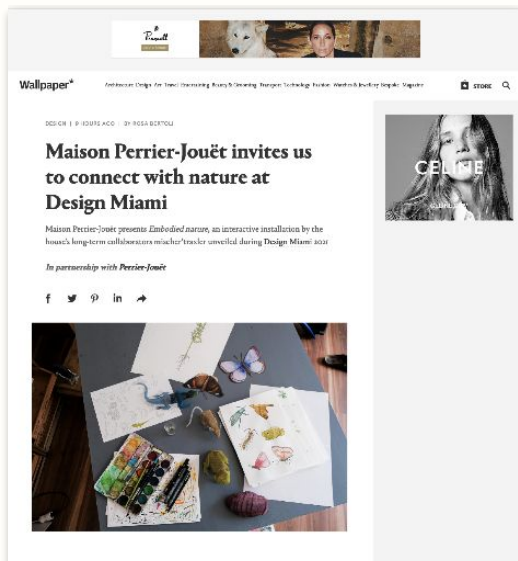

A sense of colour

Fritz Hansen and Carla Sozzani present 16 new colours for Arne Jacobsen's iconic seating

With its curvaceous, elegantly machined design and audaciously cinched waist, Arne Jacobsen's 'Series 7' chair has been a lightweight, compact and neatly stackable mainstay of the contemporary home since its introduction back in 1955. Some 65 years later, with over five million expertly pressure-moulded, ant-legged models sold, its Danish manufacturers Fritz Hansen can make a reasonable claim for the 'Series 7' being the most recognised and most successful plywood chair in the global marketplace. Now, the world's most voluptuous and familiar chair is available in a range of brand new colours.

Maison Perrier-Jouët invites us to connect with nature at Design Miami

Maison Perrier-Jouët presents Embodied nature, an interactive installation by the house's long-term collaborators mischer+traxler unveiled during Design Miami 2021

In partnership with Perrier-Jouët

f t p in ↗

Maison Perrier-Jouët and designers Katharina Mischer and Thomas Traxler present Embodied nature, a new interactive installation by the Austrian designers at Design Miami 2021.

Perrier-Jouët and mischer+traxler have collaborated since 2014, when the pair created an interactive installation exploring the instinctive movements of plants. Since then, the designers have further explored the theme of biodiversity and the natural world in partnership with Perrier-Jouët, connecting their ongoing research to the brand with the maison's Art Nouveau values.

To accompany the new project, mischer+traxler has created limited-edition gift boxes for the Perrier-Jouët Belle Époque 2013 and Perrier-Jouët Belle Époque Rosé 2013 vintage cuvées. Featuring a series of watercolour drawings inspired by the biodiversity of the maison's vines.
